

We appreciate your interest in Lovin' Spoonfuls!

Handling fresh and prepared food requires compliance with regulations set forth by the state of Massachusetts and Lovin' Spoonfuls employs professional drivers who are licensed, insured, and ServSafe certified. This means that we are currently unable to take volunteers for food rescue due to these strict regulations.

However, we work with over 100 beneficiaries who are often looking for extra help with a variety of services and projects. To help us better aid these partners, below you will find some specific information provided by each organization on how you (or a group of volunteers) could help their organization and the community that they serve.

About this Document: Updated in August of 2016, we reached out to all of our beneficiary partners to inquire about their volunteer needs. The information for each organization is a combination of feedback they gave us, as well as information available on their websites. Click on the organization titles to reach the websites for more information.

Listed below in red, you will find organizations who have some difficulties meeting their volunteer needs and may require some extra lovin'. Also note that we have listed a few organizations who can take on larger volunteer groups.
